Years in business:

We have been in business for over 60 years. At Accenture we trace our extensive history back to 1953 when Arthur Andersen installed the first computer system for commercial use at General Electric. Andersen Consulting was established in 1989 when a group of partners from the Consulting division of the various Arthur Andersen firms around the world formed a new organization devoted solely to consulting and technology services. In January 2001, we changed our legal name and became Accenture.

Number of Employees:

Today we employ more than 373,000 people serving clients in more than 120 countries.

Accenture also has offices located in Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego, San Francisco, and San Jose; with more than 2,700 of our employees assigned to those locations.

Nature of Business:

As the largest independent technology services provider, we have a privileged position in the ecosystem and are the #1 partner of many key players, including SAP, Oracle, Microsoft, HP and Salesforce.com. We have a broad global footprint aligned around three geographic regions—North America, Europe and Growth Markets—and serve clients in more than 120 countries.
